Forecast For West Midlands
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Wednesday 30 Jun 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Sunny spells and feeling warm on Wednesday.

Today:
A cloudy start for most, especially in the east, but skies soon brighten as cloud lifts through the morning. A sunny or hazy afternoon, with the odd passing cloud. Staying dry and feeling warm, highest temperatures in the west. Maximum temperature 23 deg C (73 deg F).

Tonight:
A fine summer's evening for most, with clear or bright skies for many. Becoming quite chilly overnight in places without cloud cover. Staying dry. Minimum temperature 12 deg C (54 deg F).

Thursday:
A hazy day with plenty of sunny spells throughout. Chance of a shower under any thick cloud. Maximum temperature 23 deg C (73 deg F).

Outlook for Friday to Sunday:
Feeling warm in the day and cool overnight during this period. Sunny spells with the odd shower Friday and Saturday. Showers become quite widespread and heavy, possibly thundery, on Sunday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.